Key findings

Conversion events configured

Without defined conversion events, traffic and ad platforms can't tell which visits turned into calls, quote requests, or bookings.

Call tracking present

Call tracking attributes phone leads back to the marketing channel that generated them — without it, phone-driven conversions are invisible in reporting.

GBP review volume & recency

Review volume and recency are strong local-ranking and trust signals — a low or stale review count puts a business at a disadvantage against competitors.

Form length/friction

Each additional form field is a point where a visitor can abandon a quote or contact request.

Trust signals near CTA

Licensing, certification, and review signals near the point of action reduce hesitation for a first-time visitor deciding whether to reach out.
